35 U.S.C. § 289. Apple Inc. v. Samsung Electronic Co., Ltd. was the first of a series of ongoing lawsuits between Apple Inc. and Samsung Electronics regarding the design of smartphones and tablet computers; between them, the companies made more than half of smartphones sold worldwide as of July 2012. In the spring of 2011, Apple began litigating against Samsung in patent infringement suits, while Apple and Motorola Mobility were already engaged in a patent war on several fronts.

Apple Inc. v. Samsung Electronics Co. - Wikipedia

The second Apple v.Samsung damages trial ended in a remarkable result: $533 Million verdict for infringement of Apple ' s design patents, but only $5.3 Million for infringement of Apple ' s utility patents. The big (and obvious) takeaway: design patents are no longer the weak sister of the IP world. Long considered obscure and of marginal importance, the verdict shows that they can be a ...

Yes. The jury has ruled that Samsung willfully infringed a number of Apple patents (more on that in a minute) in creating a number of devices (more coming up on that, too) and has been ordered to pay Apple $1. 05 billion in damages. Apple, which Samsung countered for $422 million, will not have to pay anything to Samsung.
