The Series II Discovery range was launched in autumn 1998. Despite looking the same as the earlier car, the only common body panel was the rear tailgate pressing.
There was an all-new Td5 in-line, five-cylinder 2.5-litre turbodiesel engine and a 4.0-litre V8 in place of the 3.9 - the slow-selling two-litre Mpi petrol model was dropped.

So when a heavily revised Disco appeared in 1998, billed as the Discovery 2, all those yummy mummies just couldn't get enough of this boxy seven-seat SUV. Despite the Discovery 2's lack of dependability, low values and old age mean more of these Discos are venturing onto green lanes, which is why you need to check for damage from off-road excursions.

The Series II Discovery debuted in autumn 1998. Land Rover promoted that the Discovery Series II had been modified with 720 'differences'. The interior and exterior were re-worked to be less utilitarian, but it was still clearly an evolution of the Series I.

The Discovery 2 may not have quite broken the same ground as the Mars pathfinder it shares its name with, but it did offer 720 differences over its predecessor. Apart from the rear door panel, every body panel was new.
While a revived interior and updated styling gave it less of a utilitarian feel.

Both the Discovery I and Discovery II share a similar shape, but Land Rover really modernized the Discovery II.
The Discovery II was the first SUV to use airbag suspension and an optional cornering enhancement system known as ACE. Unfortunately, Land Rover killed off some of the features that Land Rover enthusiasts loved such as the center differential lock. In 2004 Land Rover
