An interview with. Katherine J. Cramer. Political scientist Katherine J. Cramer has studied the changing political attitudes of rural Wisconsinites — a group that helped put Donald Trump in the White House. “Rural resentment” may not get much attention, but it's a real and powerful force in US politics. Of the twenty-three pivot counties in Wisconsin, many of them in the rural north, eight voted for Donald Trump in the 2016 election by a margin of over twenty percentage points.
